

Riding With Angels

Motorcyclists and music lovers gather near Mobile Bay for the seventh annual Raleigh & Raylee Angel Ride, November 7-8. Held at Oak Hollow Farm 8 miles south of Fairhope, the combination motorcycle rally and outdoor concert raises money for children with special needs in Mobile and Baldwin Counties and surrounding areas. The family-friendly event features food and crafts booths, a motorcycle show, and performances by Wet Willie, The Marshall Tucker Band, Mustang Sally, and Gary Allan. For ticket prices visit www.angel-ride.com, or call (251) 243-0365.

Drama on Aisle Three Knitting a Challenge

Formed by local citizens in 1980, the Wetumpka Depot Players held their first performances in a restored train station. When growing crowds prompted the nonprofit theatrical group to move to larger quarters, they turned a supermarket into a theater. Now the troupe stages six shows a season, including this month's offering, Flaming Idiots, playwright Tom Rooney's rollicking farce about a restaurant opening gone wrong. For more information visit www.wetumpkadepot.com, or call (334) 868-1440.

Last year, owner of Serendipity Needleworks and Bama grad Ellen Johnson organized a knitting challenge between her alma mater and LSU. By the time the Alabama-LSU football game rolled around, yarn-loving fans from both schools had completed nearly 2,000 infant caps for maternity wards in Tuscaloosa and New Orleans. This year Ellen is challenging Auburn fans. The goal: Finish 4,000 caps by the Iron Bowl on November 29. For more information visit www.serendipityneedleworks.com.

